Catalogue January 2010

Guidance notes to the January 2010 Interim Catalogue

The catalogue is arranged by broad subject matter.
It is not arranged alphabetically within the assigned category.

It does not follow Dewey decimal, ISBN or any other standard cataloguing system. This policy has been followed as the collection is a piece meal collection with only a few parts that could easily follow a standard classification method. Almost all of the collection pre-dates the introduction of the ISBN system. The condition of many of the books would not lend themselves to spine marking of the assigned category. The temporary location of the library does not make shelf labelling practical and the shelves themselves are too narrow for labelling to an acceptable level of readability. There will be no catalogue of authors. This version only has the book title and author listed.

This policy has been followed to enable a catalogue to be available as soon as possible for members use. It will enable shelving to suit the assigned categories. The full version will when complete have;

- Title
- Author
- Date of first publishing
- Date of publishing- edition number
- Publisher
- Comments

A diagram will be fixed to the library wall showing where each category is shelved.

A paper copy of the catalogue will be available in the library and in the workshop.

A copy will be available on the Society Website.

A CD copy will be available for loan to members for home use or to make a copy.

Some items have been shelved together that you may have expected to be in other places.

- All books on subjects concerning navigation have been shelved together. So yachting navigation books appear alongside RN & MN navigation books.
- All books concerning pilotage have been shelved together.
- All books concerning meteorology have been shelved together
- Engineering has been split into sub- categories to aid users.
- Heritage is such a wide category that many items could equally have gone elsewhere, but a choice had to be made.
- This Interim catalogue has some sections that are yet to be recorded.
